EXPERIENCE

I am currently a part-time computer science student, also freelancing as a frontend web developer. Balancing my academic responsibilities, I work as a freelance web developer, specializing in React, to create websites and web apps. Through this experience, I have delivered custom web solutions for various clients, including individual clients and companies, to meet their specific needs. Additionally, I have earned certificates in React, JavaScript, and Tailwind CSS technologies, enhancing my proficiency in frontend development. Furthermore, I actively participate in coding challenges like Frontend Mentor, where I complete various challenges and contribute by providing code reviews and feedback to other community users.
